“SAVING THE MUSTANG” DOC WINS AWARD AT EQUUS FILM FESTIVAL

We at Randy Bird Equine Education in Harwood, Ontario are proud to announce our documentary titled Saving the Mustang, produced by Albert Botha and his team at Primitive Pictures, as well as Stornoway Productions, has won Best in Festival in the Mustang category at the recent New York Equus Film Festival.

The Equus Film Festival hosts an annual awards event to showcase and honour the artistic efforts of horse themed indie film, music and advertising, and travels around the country to do so.

Saving the Mustang will go on circuit worldwide for 2019. We couldn't be more pleased or honoured to have the only Canadian film to make it into this years line-up, and to win such a prestigious award!

To learn more about Randy Bird and his experiences with saving a group of Mustang horses (he still owns two of the original Mustangs), please visit <http://www.randybird.ca>. More information on the airing of the documentary will be posted as it becomes available. Please direct all media enquiries to rbird@eagle.ca or (905) 342 – 3053.
